

NewsFlash :: Feb. 2010 :: The Challenges of a Call

Hello again, this is Bob & Michele Perez.

This has been one of my favorite newsletters and I pray that it encourages you as much as it encouraged me. I revised it about 30x's and I think I am finally finished.

So before I go, I would like to leave you with some urgent prayer requests and I pray you have a wonderful month.

1.) Only "5" more months remain for us here in the U.S.A. and we still have much support to raise!

Support needed before we can leave! } 26 new supporters at $100/month or 52 new supporters at $50/month or
104 new supporters at $25/month

Please pray with us for God to speak to hearts over these next few weeks and days as we make many calls

2.) Pray for our girls as they are just now really beginning to feel the effects of our constant travel, especially in the area of school.

3.) Lastly, won't you please pray during these final months that God would just prepare us spiritually for the challenges that lie ahead.

P.S. If you would like to receive monthly newsletters, please e-mail us with your address. (perez@whowillgo.net or bob.perez@agmd.org)

NewsFlash :: Feb. 2010 :: The Challenges of a Call

From my point of view, the call of God appears to be a constant bout with challenges. For the missionary, there is the leaving behind of the familiar, the going into the unknown, and the coping with an incredible fear of support raising. However, God's call has never indicated a PROBLEM-FREE life! In fact, I believe it indicates that as a genuine Christ follower, we will always face more challenges than the ordinary person. This is because a genuine Christ follower must learn to depend upon God.

I must admit that I have cried, I have been anxious, and at times, even desperate because of seemingly insurmountable challenges. Yesterday, another insurmountable challenge reared its ugly head and I had to make a choice, do I have a pity party or do I simply trust God? I then looked back over the past four years of my life and I realized something rather quickly, God has never failed me and you know what? He never will!!!

Can I encourage you? Open your Bible, now read Psalm 121:1-8. Friend, you can let life's difficulties destroy your pursuit of God's call or you can meditate on the words of Psalm 121 and let them liberate you to dare mighty things for God.

Don't believe me? Just give it a try and I guarantee that you will not be disappointed. Blessings.....
